This Book was rescued from the flames during the burning of the Post Office Building on Thursday morning Dec. 15. 1836. by W. W. Cox, Messenger of the Office of the Auditor, of the Treasury for the Post Office Department

Doctor Franklin was appointed General Deputy Post-master of the Colonies, in the year 1753, with a salary between him and his confederate of £600 - "if they could get it". This experement brought him in debt £900 -; and his success in expedi-ting the mails, which he dwells upon with much satisfaction in his writings, will create a smile in these days of Electricity, Steam, and young American speed - In the year 1754 he gave notice that the mail to New England, which used to start but once a fortnight in winter, should start once a week all the year, "whereby answers might be obtained to letters between Philadelphia and Boston in three weeks, which used to require six weeks."

Franklin was removed from his Office, by the British Ministry; but in the year 1775, the Congress of the Con-federation, having assumed the practical sovereignty of the Colonies, appointed a committee to devise a system of Post Office communication - who made a Report, recommending a plan, on the 26th. of July, which, on the same day, was adopted, and Doctor Franklin unanimously appointed Postmaster General, at a salary of $1,000 per annum. The salary of the Postmaster General was doubled on the 16th. of April, 1779, and on the 27th. of December of the same year, Congress increased the salary to $5000 per annum.

An Inspector of Dead Letters was also appointed at a salary of $100 per annum, who was under oath faithfully and impartially to discharge the duties of his office, and enjoined to take no copies of letters, and not to divulge the contents to any but Congress, or to those who were appointed by Congress for that purpose. — Doctor Franklin on the 7th of November, 1776, was succeeded as Postmaster General, by his relative Richard Bache who remained in office to the 28th of Jany. 1782 when he was succeeded by Ebenezer Hazard, who was the last head of the General Post Office under the Confederacy.

In 1790, there were but 75 Post Offices throughout the United States, and but 1875 miles of post roads. The General Post Office, in the year 1790, was located in New York, and Samuel Osgood of Massachusetts was the first P.M. Genl. under the Federal Government. His conception of the duties of his Office, was doubtless very humble, as he recommended "that the Postmaster General should not keep an office seperate from the one in which the mail was opened and distributed, that he might, by his presence, prevent irregularities, and rectify any mistakes that might occur. in fact, to put the Postmaster General, his assistant, and their one clerk, into the city post office, to see that its mails were assorted, and made up correctly." The salary of Mr Osgood was $1,500 — per annum. Timothy Pickering was appointed by Washington, August 12th, 1791, at an increased salary of $2000. —, Joseph Habersham was the last P.M. Genl. appointed by Washington. He was commissioned April 2d. 1795, at a salary of $2400. per annum. — The Office was located in Philadelphia in the year 1796, and was established at Washington when the Federal Government was removed there, and in 1802 the United States run their own stages between Philadelphia and New York; finding coaches, drivers, horses &c. and cleared on three years, over $11000. by carrying passengers.
